Former Inmate of Insane Asylum Starts on Rampage After Shooting Negro in Fight.

THREE OF VICTIMS LIE NEAR DEATH

Negro Stood With Back To Plate Glass Window And Mowed Down Members of Police Force.

Baltimore, June 28.—(AP)—Suddenly crazed with a rifle and two revolvers in his hands, Vance Lee, 35-year-old negro, shot down nine persons in northwest Baltimore in a space of 20 minutes today before he died with 12 police bullets in his body.

Three of his victims, two of them policemen and the other a 7-year-old negro girl, are near death. Of the others, all more or less seriously hurt, three were policemen and the rest were bystanders who got in his way.

The injured are:

Patrolman Webster Schuman, shot in mouth, may die. He is credited with firing the shot, after he was wounded, that first stopped the demented man.

Police Clerk Thomas Dillon, shot in head, may die.

Seven-year-old Mildred Duncan, negro, shot in head, may die.

Patrolman Ignatius Benesch, shot in head and hip, condition serious.

Police Chauffeur LeRoy Lents, shot in ankle.

Patrolman John R. Collins, shot in hand.

Dr. William Kammerer, shot in leg.

Arthur Wells, negro, shot in neck.

Calvin Howard, negro, shot in leg.

Having sent the entire neighborhood in the vicinity of Argyle and Lafayette avenues to cover and with his nine victims ranged about him in the street or crumpled into armchairs, Lee backed, at bay against a plate glass window, with a bullet wound in his shoulder. A concerted fire from the wounded men on the ground and from the guns of Albert Ludwig and Harry Bates, the only policemen still on their feet, dropped him to the sidewalk dead. A special riot squad which arrived a few minutes later gathered up the wounded.

Lee shot every policeman who approached him during the 20 minutes. Before he was wounded he picked three of his victims out of a police car which was cruising after him.

Lee shot Wells with a revolver and another revolver, started to terrorize the neighborhood. He has been released from the insane ward at City hospital a year ago.

ANDREWS PLANS BIG RUM DRIVE

Alcohol, Beer Squads and Border Patrol May Comprise More than 900 Men.

Washington, June 28.—(AP)—Plans for another big drive against liquor was outlined today by Assistant Secretary Andrews.

As soon as the $3,000,000 additional appropriation now pending in congress is available he said, the treasury will take on about 900 additional men—principally former army and navy men. The attack will be directed against sources of alcohol and beer, and will be centered north of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi rivers, with St. Louis and Kansas City also coming in for attention.

VERDICT RETURNED IN SECRET SESSION

Jury Recommends Elliott Be Held for First Degree Murder—Hearing Today.

St. Petersburg, Fla., June 28.—(AP) Eugene M. Elliott, a multi-millionaire developer and promoter, was arrested this afternoon late on a charge of first degree murder and is being held without bond.

The arrest of the former college athlete came as the climax to the hearing of a coroner's jury which has been investigating the fatal injury of his wife Saturday afternoon at their home in an exclusive residential section here. Attorneys for Elliott asked for an immediate preliminary hearing and it is probable it will be held Tuesday afternoon.

The hearing was held behind closed doors and the evidence was not made public.

Elliott was taken into custody by police immediately after Mrs. Elliott died in a local hospital without regaining consciousness. He is just recovering from a series of operations, and police allowed him to be removed to Mount Park hospital Saturday at midnight, where he remained until noon Sunday, when he was taken to the county jail at Clearwater, where he was held until he was removed to St. Petersburg.

The verdict of the coroner's jury in finding that Mrs. Elliott had come to her death at the hands of her husband, and recommending that he be held for first degree murder, came as a complete surprise to defense counsel and Elliott's friends, who had been confident he would be released.

The divorce bill of Mrs. Elliott, filed Saturday, just before her death, alleged extreme cruelty and infidelity. It is set forth that he had threatened her life in the event she brought suit for divorce.

Mrs. Elliott was returning home from a conference with her attorney, Crockett Owen, and her husband, infuriated because of the divorce action, allegedly had her ordered her away from the house. Barred at the front door, she hurried around the house to the back door, and had just gotten inside the door when Elliott intercepted her.

Elliott in his statement to Chief of Police E. D. Vaughn said Mrs. Elliott lost her grip on the door and fell backwards, striking her head on the concrete sidewalk, but still have been conscious. He said the woman already was inside the house and that she was shoved or knocked through the door.

EIGHTY-THREE-OLD PLANTER MARRIES GIRL OF 14 YEARS

New Orleans, La., June 28.—(AP) Friends of M. L. Hunter, of Columbus, Miss., here today learned of the marriage of the 80-year-old planter to Miss Marie, the 14-year-old daughter of a local planter.

Mr. Hunter was refused a marriage license last Friday by R. E. L. Smith, a county court clerk, because the girl he proposed to wed was only 14 years old.

Tom Landers later prevailed upon the clerk to issue the license by giving his formal consent to his daughter's marriage to Mr. Hunter. As a result, he now has a son-in-law who is old enough to be Landers' father.

PONZI ARRESTED IN NEW ORLEANS

'Financial Wizard' Wanted in Florida and Massachusetts Arrested by Houston Detective.

Houston, Texas, June 28.—(AP)—Charles Ponzi, swindler who is wanted in Florida and Massachusetts, was arrested today in New Orleans by Deputy Sheriff George Lacy, of Houston. Sheriff T. A. Binford announced here tonight.

Ponzi admitted his identity after it was found that his fingerprints tallied with records of him in possession of Deputy Lacy, the sheriff said.

Sheriff Binford said that Ponzi would arrive here early tomorrow and would be held for the Boston police.

The "financial wizard" was taken off an Italian steamer when it docked at New Orleans en route from Houston to Genoa, Italy. He was serving as a seaman under the name of Luciani Andre and had been aboard the vessel since June 8. He went aboard at Tampa, Fla.

Deputy Lacy telephoned Miami, Fla., police for Ponzi's fingerprint classification, he told Sheriff Binford in a long distance telephone conversation. The fingerprints of the seaman tallied.

More Than 100 Fellow Townsmen of Great Golfers Prepare to Greet Heroes Upon Return to U. S.

TRAIN LEAVES CITY LATE WEDNESDAY

Exact Nature of Greeting Not Yet Determined Pending Arrival of Delegation in New York.

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

The zero hour for those followers of golf and well wishers of Bob Jones who hope to be present in New York when Atlantans greet Bob and Watts Gunn Friday is fast approaching.

T. N. Bradshaw announced Monday that a steady stream of requests from those who hope to board the Southern railway's special train at 4:40 o'clock Wednesday afternoon was reaching him at headquarters in the Atlanta Athletic club. The train, he pointed out, is limited to 125 passengers and those who wish to take advantage of the record low rate of $30.50 for the round trip should do so at once.

Final arrangements for that portion of the greeting to the returning British open champion which has to do with the trip from Atlanta to New York have been completed. The train will leave the Terminal station at 4:40 and will arrive at the Pennsylvania terminal in New York about 23 hours later. The party will be met at the station by a fleet of trucks in which they will be carried to the Vanderbilt hotel, where a suite of rooms has been arranged, it is said.

There the preparations have been stopped pending more definite news as to the time the host docks. It has been practically decided that no effort will be made to take the two athletes to the hotel by the train. Aquitania when she reaches quarantine. She probably will proceed to her pier at Fourteenth street in the city and the athletes will be taken aboard may share in the demonstration to the conquering hero, and also so that New Yorkers and others who wish to join in the greeting may do so.

Some form of entertainment out of the ordinary will be prepared for Jones and Gunn. There is no doubt of the intention of the Atlantans to want to make this the biggest welcome an Atlantan ever received. They want to make it so good that Bob and Watts will remember it always. These details have not been arranged but there is a very good chance that Atlanta and will be taken on the special train.

Mr. Bradshaw and other members of the Atlanta Athletic club committee are planning that the trip is not a "stagnant" affair at all. Many women already have signified their intention of accompanying their husbands. Some will take their daughters. A maid will be aboard the special train to look after the feminine contingent.

General Clem Enthusiastic Over Trip To Kennesaw

Washington, D. C., June 28.—(Special.)—Major General John L. Clem, U. S. A., retired, chairman of the Kennesaw Memorial Park commission, returned to Washington today after a meeting of the commission in Marietta, Ga., and participating in the reunion there last Saturday.

Of his trip General Clem said: "Our commission met and formally organized. We went over various details of procedure, and have referred to our associate, Lieutenant Colonel William P. Stokes of the U. S. A., engineering corps, the matter of making certain investigations, detailed reports of which he will submit to the commission at a meeting to be held about a month from now. Both General Harris and I agree that we are most fortunate in having associated with us a man of such splendid ability as Colonel Stokes, who is one of the most competent officers in the engineering corps of the army. Being located in Atlanta at the headquarters of the fourth corps area, he is in close touch with the environment, and his service will be invaluable to the commission.

"There is nothing further to say now other than that we have done all that can be done up to this time and that we are going to do everything within our power to discharge in a satisfactory manner the responsibility that has been put on the commission by congress. Under the law creating the commission our report must be submitted by November 1.

"Of all the battle grounds of the Civil war," continued General Clem, "there is no more historic area than that around Atlanta and embraced in the territory between Kennesaw mountain and Stone mountain.

"Our responsibility is primarily to the nation, and it is our duty to preserve this historic area for the benefit of future generations.

'HER REGIMENT' REGISTERS HIT AT PREMIERE

Vera Myers Acclaimed by Crowd as Leading Lady of Victor Herbert's Comedy.

LOU POWERS' WORK PLEASES AUDIENCE

Atlanta's Popular Comedian Nearly Stops Musical Play at Atlanta With His Acting.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

"Her Regiment," the Victor Herbert musical comedy which last night opened the second week of the current season of Atlanta summer entertainment at the Atlanta theater, proved a delight. It must be admitted that, to many of the great audience which all but filled the theater, the hilarious fun, the tuneful music, the beautiful scenery, the dainty dancing and the entire success of the performance came rather in the nature of a pleasant surprise.

For those who hadn't heard so much about "Her Regiment," the name didn't mean quite so much to us as did that of "The Chocolate Soldier," the first week's production.

But, after all, it was a wonderful night and, in utmost sincerity, it is cause for gratitude that there are yet five more nights and two matinees of the same to follow before the week is out.

First mention, in placing responsibility for the astonishing success must go, perhaps, to Lou Powers, the comedian. Last week Mr. Powers did not have much opportunity to display his unique gifts as a comedian, but this week—

He threatened to stop the show half a dozen times in the first and second acts and, in the third, he did it. In a duet with Anne Vane, "Come on over here," they took curtain calls beyond number and excores until they simply could take no more. And the others of the cast, who had been waiting backstage to take up their dialogue, were at last permitted to "carry on."

A little later Mr. Powers again registered his encore columns and his solo number, "Rose of Rigoletto."

Miss Myers Makes Bow. Really, if it had been possible to print two lines in the space of one, Vera Myers, making her first bow of the season, should have been mentioned up above along with Mr. Powers. For the dainty little star, who won a lot of Atlantans' hearts with her work here in the title role of "Sally," chanced all those conquests and added hundreds more by her work last night.

A sweet and true voice, with an appealing quality that clings round the most blasé heart, a picture of loveliness, indelible and a touch of supreme grace—that is Vera Myers. She carries the exquisite beauty of her dance into her every motion and there isn't a moment when she is not a stage when she isn't a picture to write poetry about.

And Louis Templeman, the baritone, when we learned better just how good a voice we have here this year, by the second week's performance. In his "Dream Song," and "Art Song," solo the richness of his tones filled the theater with echoing beauty and power. And Arthur Burkhardt, the tenor, was equally good.

Women Fight For Estranged Mate of One

Mrs. Rogers and Willard Hughes Bound Over; Mrs. Hughes Released.

Two is company, three's a crowd! That's what Mrs. Willard Hughes said Monday she was told when she climbed into her estranged husband's automobile at Georgia avenue and Pryor street while Mr. Hughes had as his companion in the car Mrs. Mary Rogers, 33, of 529 Pulliam street. Mrs. Hughes, the estranged husband, and Mrs. Rogers, his companion, were bound over in recorder's court Monday to the state court. Each was placed under bond of $500 and charged with assault and battery upon Mrs. Hughes.

A charge of disorderly conduct made against Mrs. Hughes at the time police arrested her husband and Mrs. Rogers was dismissed.

According to the story told to Recorder Murphy M. Holloway by witnesses Monday, Mrs. Hughes happened upon her husband and Mrs. Rogers in an automobile at Georgia avenue and Pryor street. Mrs. Hughes crawled into the machine, whereupon she was told that two is company and three is a crowd. But she refused to get out. Hughes, it is charged, held her while Mrs. Rogers pummeled her, according to Mrs. Hughes' claims.

According to the arresting officers, Joe A. Allen and Charlie E. Hale, Mrs. Hughes accused Mrs. Rogers of having broken up her home by alienating her husband's affections.

CALLS REGIME "FAMILY AFFAIR"

Opponent of Department Head in Race for Commissioner Issues His First Statement.

Georgia's department of agriculture during the administration of J. J. Brown, commissioner, has been a "family affair" with 13 of Brown's relatives in various jobs drawing salaries from the state aggregating $28,930, according to James H. Mills, opponent of Brown in the race for commissioner, in his first statement in the campaign since he announced against his former chief last Wednesday.

After drawing this amount from the state Commissioner Brown and his 13 relatives on the state payroll received additional recompense of the state in the shape of the free use of state automobiles with the state paying the gas bills, oil bills and other expenses, according to Mills' statement.

Although the commissioner himself receives a salary of $5,000 a year he has not worked 30 days at his official duties in the last ten months, Mr. Mills charged.

These charges were principal features of the Mills statement which is the first that has been issued from his headquarters since the recent "break" between the commissioner and two of his lieutenants, L. B. Jackson, former head of the bureau of markets, and Fred T. Bridges, former assistant commissioner. Jackson and Bridges retired declaring they were "fired" after they had informed Brown they would support Mills for commissioner.

In his statement, Candidate Mills makes public the names and relationship of the 13 relatives of the commissioner who probably will be known as "the sisters and the cousins and the aunts" in the present campaign.

Additional information is furnished in the Mills statement that Commissioner Brown last November bought an automobile and paid for it out of funds of the state oil inspection department and then appropriated this automobile "to his own personal use."

Hits Oil Inspection. Discussing other phases of the situation, Mills said he favored a reduction in the number of oil inspectors to a number not more than six, and "less than six if possible." He also favored a reorganization of the laws governing the administration of the department of agriculture. He pledged himself to conduct an economical administration. Commissioner Brown declared Monday that he would make a complete statement of his position in a few days. He had not read the Mills statement, but said he would make a statement.

SENATE APPROVES AID TO VETERANS

Representative Bell's Measure Extending Hospitalization and Insurance Benefits Passed.

Washington, June 28.—(Special.)—Two important provisions drafted by Representative Bell, of Georgia, were approved by the senate Monday when it passed the bill extending hospitalization, educational and insurance benefits to war veterans.

One of these provisions would allow payment to the family of a veteran who died before he received it the $50 bonus granted at the close of the war. The other would authorize the application of this bonus to the insurance of any veteran who had died and whose insurance had lapsed, thus making the insurance valid if the amount of the payment due was $50 or less.

Senator George H. Dyer died these amendments to the senate for Representative Bell.

Charges of Atrocities Are Made by Druses In French-Syrian War

Circassian and Armenian Mercenary Troops Are Responsible for Cruelties, Is Claim.

Damascus, June 28.—(AP)—Syria today is writhing in the throes of one of the cruellest wars ever waged, and charges and counter-charges of atrocities of the most revolting sort are constantly being made.

Stories of disemboweled men found along the roadside, of others found with their ears cut off and suffering from the most atrocious kinds of mutilation are common.

Without going into the matters of responsibility for the present situation, the fact remains that Syria, which it was intended should enjoy peace and prosperity under the protection of the League of Nations, now is a country where the human rights are in the public square.

Whether the journey were made by road or railway, one used to enter Damascus through a long stretch of orchards and running waters in pleasant scenes and gardens. Today one passes through barbed wire barricades and danger lurks everywhere.

As explained by Syrians to a correspondent for the Associated Press, the use of Circassian and Armenian mercenary troops by the French command is the greatest obstacle to peace in the mandated territory. Syrians and Druses profess even greater hatred for these mercenaries than they hold for the Senegalese and the Algerians. Attributed to his statement to the American people on June 18, made it most plain that the arming of the Christian Circassians and Armenians by the French was one of the bitterest causes of resentment among the Druses. Nationalist leaders in Damascus charged these mercenaries with revolting atrocities.

While allowance must be made for the hatred for their opponents under which the president tribesmen are laboring, neutral observers who have been in Syria since the armed hostilities began, are inclined to believe that some acts contrary to the laws of civilized warfare have been committed. In no case, however, have the French white troops been implicated in any of these alleged acts.

Reports of the alleged atrocities have been placed on file in every neutral consulate in Damascus and their respective governments have been informed of them. The neutral observers feel that the French government would welcome a League of Nations investigation into these charges or should conduct one itself.

MILLS CRITICIZES BROWN'S POLICIES

"full statement" of his position on all charges and issues in a few days. He explained to a conference of the employees of the 11 departments under the state department of agriculture was held Monday, and that all the employees had pledged him their loyalty save one. J. E. Bodenhamer presided at the meeting, which was a voluntary one on the part of the employees, it was an announcement.

Mills Statement.
Following is Mills' statement:
"In reaching the decision to enter the race for commissioner of agriculture, I am answering the call of my friends throughout the state who are vitally and directly interested in the welfare of the actual dirt farmers of Georgia."

"I have been a farmer all my life and lay claims to no other profession. I have spent the greater portion of the last several years helping to build up farmers' cooperative marketing associations in our state for the purpose of marketing farm products."

"I am familiar with every need of the Georgia farmer. This information gained by actual operation and direct contact. As further evidence of my fitness to serve as commissioner of agriculture I submit to the voters of this state that I have been designated by the National Farmers' union and other national farm organizations a number of times to do special and important work. I have also been president of the Georgia Farmers' union for nine years."

"I have served in both branches of the Georgia legislature and during my term in the senate while I was chairman of the senate agricultural committee, I was the author and pushed to successful passage the act legalizing cooperative marketing in this state. The experience gained in this capacity I feel qualifies me further to serve in the post I seek."

Economy Pledged.
"I am thoroughly in sympathy with the demands of my people in every walk of life to put the agricultural department on a more economical basis."

"The Hon. Sam J. State, state auditor, in his audit of the department of agriculture of date of February 12, 1926, made the following recommendations:
"In my opinion the commissioner of agriculture could perform no more valuable service than to ask the legislature in 1927 to appoint a commission of five members of the senate to act with him in a comprehensive survey and reorganization of laws and reorganization of the activities of the department of agriculture."

"I have a record in agricultural matters all my life.
"I know exactly what I want to do.
"I know why I want to do it.
"I pledge you to do what I say I will do."

"If elected I pledge myself to comply with State Auditor State's recommendation, and pledge myself further to cooperate with this commission to the fullest extent in the reorganization of laws and reorganization of the activities of the department of agriculture."

"I am in favor of reducing the oil inspectors to a number not more than six, and less if in the wisdom of the commission a smaller number can perform this service efficiently to the state's best interest."

"I pledge myself to the most rigid economy in every branch of the department."

"I now propose to give the voters of this state some hard facts in information relative to the manner in which the commissioner of agriculture is conducting himself in office, including his appropriation of this department to his own personal use, and that of his own kindreds and his kindreds' kindreds."

"Family Payroll" Listed.
"The following list of his family and kindreds on the payroll of the agricultural department, while astounding and almost unbelievable, is nevertheless true in detail:

"Commissioner J. J. Brown, salary, $5,000	"J. J. Brown's son, Walter J. Brown, secretary to his father, residence Decatur, salary, 2,400
"J. J. Brown, son of Commissioner J. J. Brown, long-term fertilizer salesman, residence Atlanta, salary, 1,200	"Vester Brown, son of Commissioner J. J. Brown, salary inspector, residence Macon, salary, 2,400
"Marion Brown, half brother of Commissioner J. J. Brown, clerk commissioner's office, residence Atlanta, salary, 1,800	"Harvey Brown, son of Commissioner J. J. Brown, clerk, residence Atlanta, salary, 1,050
"W. L. News, nephew of Commissioner J. J. Brown, by marriage, secretary-treasurer of otomological department, residence Atlanta, salary, 3,000	"D. W. Greenway, nephew of Commissioner J. J. Brown, in fertilizer laboratory, residence Atlanta, salary, 1,200
"H. F. Ginn, nephew by marriage, Commissioner J. J. Brown, fertilizer laboratory, residence Atlanta, salary, 1,500	"H. W. Newhouse, brother-in-law of Commissioner J. J. Brown, fertilizer laboratory, residence Atlanta, salary, 2,400
"O. A. Teasley, oil inspector, Toccoa, Georgia, salary, 1,200	"J. J. Brown's son-in-law, salary, 1,200
"J. J. Brown, in crop reporting department, residence Atlanta, salary, 2,750

"O. S. Lee, father-in-law of Commissioner J. J. Brown, lives Atlanta, pure food inspector, salary, $30,000
His family expenses, $28,000
Total salaries, $28,000

"Commissioner J. J. Brown and some of his sons and kin folks are furnished with automobiles, with gas and oil, and all other expenses paid. These additional items of expense will amount to many thousands of dollars each year, to be considered along with the stupendous thousands in salaries enumerated above."

"Commissioner J. J. Brown was elected to this office in 1916, and has been in this office now almost 10 years."

"The state of Georgia has virtually no commissioner of agriculture for the past 10 months. He has almost completely deserted the office, since the first day of September."

"To be specific, he has actually given less than thirty (30) days of his time to his official duties, for the past 10 months."

"I make the charge that last November Commissioner J. J. Brown purchased a Ford automobile and paid for it out of the funds of the oil department."

"I charge further that he appropriated said automobile to his own personal use, after virtually deserting his office in September."

"Illegal Act" Rapped.
"It is illegal, because he is only authorized by the law governing the operations of the oil department to spend money collected by said oil department for the expenses for the state oil inspectors, bringing total attendance for the season to $7,182, despite inclement weather, which forced the play centers to close several times during the past two weeks."

Attendance for the week ended June 10, reached 17,594, which is slightly below the opening week of 1925. To-day's attendance for the past two weeks totals that of the same period last year.

Adair park led last week with a total of 1,356; Grant was second with 1,237 and Key with 1,009.

Special programs have been arranged for several of the playgrounds for this week as follows:
Friday, June 25, show, D. F. McClatchey, races and athletic events; Grant, doll show and "Cinderella," a play; Exposition, baby show.

HISTORIC BATTLE IS REPRODUCED NEAR CHARLESTON

Charleston, S. C., June 28.—(AP)—With thousands of Charlestonians and visitors in attendance the historic battle of Fort Moultrie, marking the third and last day of the sesqui-centennial celebration, was reproduced today on the spot where 150 years ago Gen. William Moultrie repulsed the British fleet, commanded by Sir Peter Parker, British admiral.

Enacted by detachments of the United States army, navy and marine corps and troops of the national guard of South Carolina clad in the uniform of colonial days, the battle reproduced the main historical features of the famous engagement with considerable accuracy, though the events were of necessity crowded in point of time.

Murray Bennett, now of New York, a Charlestonian, appeared as Sergeant Jasper, who achieved immortality by recapturing the colors after they had been felled by a British ball. Lieutenant Colonel R. John West, in command of Fort Moultrie, impersonated William Moultrie, and President John Rutledge, chief of the Charleston police department, Sir Peter Parker's role was taken by his great-grandson, Luther W. Parker.

Several hours before the attack was launched on the Palmetto stronghold at Sullivan's island, a mass of spectators gathered at Battery Jasper and on the parapets of the fort, a strategic position to witness the bombardment from these and the return of the fire from the besieged.

Just prior to the beginning hostilities, a speech was made by Governor Thomas G. McLeod, of South Carolina, in which he dwelt upon the significance of the occasion. Formal honors were accorded the chief executive of the state upon his arrival by the firing of a salute from Fort Moultrie.

Events of Saturday and Sunday were preliminary to the impressive program of today, Carolina day, which was declared a state holiday. The bells of Saint Michael's rang out the same bells that sounded 150 years ago. A drizzling rain failed to keep people indoors, the streets being crowded early with the holiday throng. Heralding the mile events, salutes were fired from Fort Moultrie, and the three first-line battleships, Wyoming, Utah and New York.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE BOOKS EXAMINED.
Westerville, Ohio, June 28.—(AP)—Books and correspondence of the Anti-Saloon League of America were examined today by accountants from the senate campaign committee at Washington. Hilin Yates, secretary to Senator Reed, of Missouri, and the accountants arrived earlier in the day to audit the books to determine the source of political campaign contributions and expenditures.

One of the first tasks was to obtain the list of persons who are subscribers to $500 or more annually to the league.

The auditing party included Alonzo Tweedie, certified public accountant of Washington, auditor of the municipal government of the District of Columbia for 15 years and later treasurer of the U. S. shipping board, and Ray L. Wynn, one of the official reporters of the senate committee.

In the absence of Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league, the investigation was welcomed by Dr. Howard H. Russell, associate general superintendent and founder of the league, who said that "everything Mr. Tweedie and his assistants have asked for has been cheerfully given, for, contrary to the statement of the wets, the league has nothing to conceal."

Mr. Russell said the league had placed at the disposal of the investigators the services of W. D. Wall, of Columbus, a certified public accountant and Kenneth W. Gray, one of his assistants, who for years have audited the league's books.

"The discovery will be made that there is nothing whatever to the advantage of the foes of prohibition to be found in the financial or political conduct of the Anti-Saloon League," Dr. Russell said.

Dr. McBride, as well as Dr. Ernest P. Cherrington, general secretary, the world, says, will be in Westerville tomorrow.

PUGH AND WIFE FACE CHARGE OF SLAYING

Officers of Hall county reached Atlanta late Monday to serve warrants on charges of manslaughter on Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pugh, occupants of the automobile that Sunday afternoon killed Mary Lois Haynes, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Haynes, at Clermont, near Gainesville.

Mrs. Pugh, who is confined to the home, 72 Alta avenue, from nervous prostration, will go to Hall county as soon as she recovers and post bond for her appearance for trial. Mr. Pugh and officers went to Gainesville Monday night.

In a statement to Detectives J. H. Pugh and W. J. Stephens Sunday night, Pugh told officers his wife was driving the automobile at the time of the accident and the car was not running more than 10 or 12 miles an hour.

Pugh also said the car stopped and he and his wife remained at the scene of the accident about 15 minutes, offering every assistance and furnishing names and address to witnesses, leaving again assured by some of them that the child was not seriously injured.

At the front and rear wheels of the automobile passed over the little girl's body, Pugh told detectives.

CITY PLAYGROUNDS ATTENDANCE SHOWS BIG GAIN FOR YEAR

A total of 19,588 children attended Atlanta playgrounds for the week ended June 26, it was announced Monday by Miss Margaret Camp, playground supervisor, bringing total attendance for the season to 87,182, despite inclement weather, which forced the play centers to close several times during the past two weeks.

Attendance for the week ended June 10, reached 17,594, which is slightly below the opening week of 1925. To-day's attendance for the past two weeks totals that of the same period last year.

Adair park led last week with a total of 1,356; Grant was second with 1,237 and Key with 1,009.

Special programs have been arranged for several of the playgrounds for this week as follows:
Friday, June 25, show, D. F. McClatchey, races and athletic events; Grant, doll show and "Cinderella," a play; Exposition, baby show.

DEMOCRAT SOLON URGES RECLAIMING OF SOUTH'S SWAMPS

Washington, June 28.—(AP)—The swamp lands of the south should be considered in the government's reclamation program, Representative Busby, democrat, Mississippi, said in the house today.

He added that he understood the importance of the western irrigation projects, but believed other sections of the country should not be overlooked. Many of the overgrown lands would be "splendidly fertile" if drained, he explained.

He tomorrow and are expected to assist the audit.

Mr. Tweedie said he and his associates were instructed to remain in Westerville until the task had been completed.

Naval Delegates Unable To Agree On Ship Question

Geneva, June 28.—(AP)—Something new again emerged at Geneva today when the naval delegates decided that it was impossible even for them to distinguish between types of warships. This decision is another factor in the fight led by the French and Italians against employing the tonnage or classes of ships as a means of comparing the strength of navies.

The French and Italians merely want total tonnage considered, without any emphasis being laid on categories, such as battleships and submarines, in the construction of which they prefer complete liberty of action.

The question arose today when the British, introducing a project, asked "whether it is possible to divide roughly combatant naval units into classes in such a manner as to convey to the naval mind the distinction between them."

Great Britain, the United States, Japan, China and Argentina voted "yes," but six nations, France, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Poland and Belgium, voted "no." Eight countries abstained from voting.

To justify Italian opposition, the Italian admiral asked his colleagues whether they would call a battleship which mounted only three-inch guns, Rear Admiral Hilary Jones, U. S. N., rejoined, "I should call it a joke."

CO-DEFENDANT IN MURDER CASE WEDDED RECENTLY

Los Angeles, Calif., June 28.—(AP) Arthur C. Burch, co-defendant with Madalynne Obenchain, formerly of Chicago, in their trials for the alleged murder of J. Belton Kennedy here several years ago, has been married three months, it became known today.

Burch refused to tell his wife's family name, but said that her given name was "Anne" and that she was a daughter of the south. They are living in Pasadena.

Burch and Mrs. Obenchain were tried three times, but in each instance the jury disagreed.

Marshal Wu Unable To Agree To War Against Kuo Min-Chun

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
(Copyright, 1926, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Peking, June 28.—Following four meetings, outwardly cordial, with his ancient enemy Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Marshal Wu Pei Fu, who arrived this morning in Peking, is expected to depart tonight to assume the post of chief in command in the war against Kuo Min-Chun.

Earnest operations are about to begin. A decision was reached also to continue the present temporary cabinet with minor changes. Some weeks later Marshal Chang Tso-Lin probably will assert a fuller control, although strong political difficulties exist.

Aside from the necessity of cooperation against the Kuo Min-Chun, both are agreed that it is essential for China to have a government capable of reaching a tariff agreement whenever the foreign powers reconcile their difficulties in the question of tariff control. The opinion exists that the deadlock may continue indefinitely unless Japan and Great Britain reach a compromise.

Coincident with the prospect of a bitter struggle over a wide front with the Kuo Min-Chun forces, troop movements directed by the Kuo Min-Chun indicate immediate invasion of both the Hunan and Kiangsi provinces, which Marshal Wu Pei-Fu and General Sun Shuang-Fang are sending additional troops.

POLAND BUYS SIX PLANES IN FRANCE, WIRELESS REPORTS

New York, June 28.—(AP)—The following official German wireless dispatch from Nauen, Germany, was picked up tonight by the wireless station of the New York World:

"Six monster French bombing planes, each loaded with 2,000 kilos of explosives, have arrived at the Aspern airbase, Vienna, en route for Warsaw, to be delivered to the Polish government. Twenty-six more are expected. The German government had refused to allow the planes to fly over German territory."

"Sure, food that's good for me, but make it taste like something, too"—so he starts with Puffed Rice

MEN want to eat food that's "good" for them, of course. But above all, they want food that coaxes the appetite into action, too.

That's why so many have turned to Puffed Rice, said by experts to be the most delicious cereal food known—a food that proves food that's good for you can be gloriously delicious, too.

Each grain is steam puffed to eight times its natural size. And that makes digestion easy. Then it's oven toasted. Which makes it oddly enticing to the taste.

It's food that supplies the vitally needed carbohydrate elements you need for health's sake. Tastes like toasted nutmeats, tempts like a confection, makes it unnecessary to eat cereal foods you don't like much, simply because you feel you need them.

Isn't it better to have that kind of cereal on your table: one that tempts and entices than just an ordinary one? Most people think it is. Try Puffed Rice just for once. You will be delighted. Obtain at your grocery store.

CITY BOND SALE AFTER ENGRAVING

Atlanta's $8,000,000 bond issue can be placed on the market as soon as engravers are able to complete the printing, as a result of action taken Monday afternoon by the Atlanta bond commission, and the $2,000,000 which will be sold this year will be ready for market within a few days. The commission heard reports of contact committees of the commission, but no definite action was taken.

pending availability of funds. The committee authorized the diverting of enough money to carry out the engraving. Officials declined to discuss recommendations made to the commission, saying nothing definite has been done, pending sale of the bonds. The meeting was held at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel and was an executive session.

William A. Hansell, chief of construction, asked the commission to provide a $25,000 fund to begin at once a triangulation survey of Atlanta and its environs as the first step in the sewer bond expenditure, pointing out that this is necessary in order that future development of the network of sewers may be done scientifically and intelligently.

J. O. Wood, candidate for governor, spent Monday in Atlanta, leaving in the afternoon for Unadilla, Dooly county, where he will speak in behalf of his candidacy. While here he mailed a letter to George A. Carswell, candidate for governor, as follows:

"George H. Carswell, 'Irwinton, Ga.' 'Upon my return from a speaking tour of north Georgia, I learn that you have suggested that the several candidates for governor meet in joint debate before the voters of the several congressional districts. If this suggestion is to be taken as a challenge to engage in joint debate I hereby accept the challenge to debate in your district and in mine, you to select the city in your district and myself to name the city in my district in which the debates are to take place. I would like our talks to be confined to these subjects:

"Our relations with and feeling towards the Brown machine, Thomas Hardwick, the Ku Klux Klan, the bond issue, school and roads and the Bible in the public schools. ## JOYNER FUNERAL RITES TO BE HELD HERE TODAY

Funeral services for Ralph Joyner, 36, world war veteran and son of the late Captain W. R. Joyner, former mayor and chief of the Atlanta fire department for many years, who died Saturday night at the United States Veterans' hospital at Queen, N. C., will be held this morning at 10 o'clock from the chapel of Barclay & Brandon company, The Rev. Richard Orme Plinn and Dr. J. H. Patton, of Marietta will officiate and interment will be in Marietta cemetery. Music will be played by Mrs. Charles S. Northern, a lifelong friend of the Joyner family. The body of Mr. Joyner will arrive in Atlanta early this morning from North Carolina.

Mr. Joyner, a native Atlantan, has been in failing health for the past two years. He was forced to retire from active business in Springfield, Ill. He was taken to the hospital in North Carolina and his condition continually grew worse until he succumbed late Saturday night.

He was a member of the 121st infantry and 31st division during the world war. He served as a sergeant and later as drum major of his company. He saw service in several of the larger battles, and it was in the heat of one of these battles that he was wounded. Physicians stated that his death resulted from effects of the deadly poison gas which his regiment was never able to overcome completely.

LYDIAN SINGERS TO ORGANIZE HERE

National campaign headquarters of Lydian Singers of America in the Ansley hotel announced Monday that preparations were under way to organize within the next 10 days the Grand Lydian measure of the organization in Atlanta. An impressive ritualistic ceremony will mark inauguration of the work here.

Professor William Henry Collisson, who is in charge of organization, will direct the training of the chorus of 500 voices which will sing at the inauguration ceremony. An interesting feature of the opening of the Grand Lydian measure here will be the presence of several high officers of Lydian Singers from Jacksonville, national headquarters. Among those will be Rev. L. G. McNair, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Jacksonville, grand chaplain of the organization, and John T. Allison, Jr., mayor of Jacksonville, who is a member of the supreme executive committee and one of the original incorporators. In addition, it is expected that a number of prominent singers from different parts of the country, including Miss Gertrude Rennyson, former Metropolitan grand opera star, will attend. All of the officers and guests who attend inauguration ceremonies will be registered at the Ansley hotel, and a number of social affairs are planned.

Efforts are being made to have national headquarters moved to Atlanta, and this is one of the matters to be taken up at the gathering here.

SALE OF PROPERTY ORDER TO SETTLE LONG LITIGATION

Court order for the sale of 25 acres of land, one mile east of Buckhead, which has been in litigation for the past eleven years, was issued Monday in Fulton superior court. The court ordered sale of the property and appointed W. E. Harwell and J. V. Carter, Jr., to act as commissioners. Proceeds of the sale will be turned back to the court for distribution to heirs of the estate and others interested in the property.

A group of Atlanta negroes, it is said, is planning to purchase the property as a site for a negro industrial training school. Negroes interested in the property declared that negroes have had a financial interest in it for more than half a century.

The property is situated east of Peachtree road and south of Peachtree road, and is declared to be one of the most valuable tracts in the district.

ATLANTA WAR VETERAN HEADS STATE D. A. V.

E. H. Winchester, member of the Woodrow Wilson chapter No. 1, of Atlanta, Monday was selected commander of the department of Georgia, Disabled Americans Veterans of the World War, succeeding J. H. Lucas. The latter was presented with a jewel in recognition of his service as state commander during the past year.

Other officers elected at Monday's state convention at the Ansley hotel are: R. E. McCaskill, of Atlanta, senior vice commander; C. B. McCullar, of Milledgeville, junior vice commander; J. H. Allison, of Atlanta, treasurer, and J. H. Taylor, of Athens, Ga., chaplain.

More than 30 delegates from various parts of the state were present at the luncheon, which preceded the election of officers. A number of members of the Women's Service Star Legion attended.

A sad note was struck during the proceedings when word reached the convention that E. C. Crisp, a delegate from the local chapter, had died at 11:30 Monday morning, following a major operation. It is thought that the excitement attending the national convention last week precipitated a collapse. He was an inmate of United States hospital No. 1.

A guard of honor, composed of members of the local veterans' organization, escorted the body from the undertaking establishment of Blanchard Brothers to the Terminal station. Funeral services will be held in Almond, N. C.

FAIR AND WARMER IS WEATHER MENU FOR SECTION TODAY

Fair and warmer is the simple weather menu for Atlanta today and probably until the last of this week, according to A. H. Scott, assistant meteorologist at the local weather office.

With just about an inch of rainfall tucked away during the past week, Atlanta will now have a short respite from cloudy and rainy weather, Mr. Scott said. Temperatures should range slightly higher today than on Monday.

The highest thermometer reading for Monday was 78 degrees and the lowest recorded was 62 degrees. The mercury will range from 67 to 88 degrees today.

Mr. Scott announced that .39 inches of rainfall was recorded in Atlanta since last Tuesday and .19 inches fell Saturday night and Sunday. Many parts of the state reported much heavier rainfall, he declared.

THREE NEW BANKS BEING ORGANIZED IN TWO STATES

Three new banks are reported by The Southern Banker, of Atlanta, this week to be in process of organization in Georgia and Virginia, while three existing banks in Alabama and Florida have announced capital increases totaling $115,000. Three new bank-buildings, representing large investments in Georgia and North Carolina also are planned.

Newly organized banks are: The Farmers and Merchants' bank, Adel, Ga.; the American Exchange bank, Parrott, Ga.; and the Warrenton-Plains State bank, Warrenton, Va.

Hawaiian Relative Of Atlanta Family To Visit Homefolks

After many years of soldiering and newspaper work in the Hawaiian Islands, Lee R. Booser will return for a visit to his relatives in Atlanta. He was a former sergeant of the Hawaiian military police and since his discharge in 1923, has been doing newspaper work on the staff of the Honolulu Advertising company. He is expected within a few days.

Mr. Booser enlisted in the army in 1916 and served throughout the war. He served in several states and was stationed in Hawaii with the military police there. He was married several years ago to Miss Rebecca Wise, the daughter of Senator John H. Wise, of Hawaii.

He is the brother of Thomas J. Booser, Atlanta representative of the American Writing Company, Inc. and is the son of T. J. Booser, of Newberry, S. C.

CHAMBER TO DISCUSS PLANS FOR EXPOSITION

Detailed plans for the Atlanta Industrial Exposition to be held August 2 to 7 at the auditorium, will be discussed this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the chamber of commerce by the general committee headed by H. Y. McCord, Jr., chairman.

Although the committee were organized only a week ago, more than $2,700 of exhibit space has been taken by Atlanta manufacturers. Virgil W. Shepard, who is in charge of the space allotment, said Monday he is confident every square foot in the main auditorium and the new annex would be under contract long in advance of the show dates.

Atlanta wholesale merchants are expected to take thousands of tickets, at 10 cents each, to be distributed among retailers who are expected for the annual "merchants' week," at the same time as the industrial exposition, and which is sponsored by the Merchants and Manufacturers' association.

SEABOARD TRAIN SERVICE SHOWS UNUSUAL AVERAGE

Train performance of the entire Seaboard Air Line Railway company's system shows an average of almost 99 per cent, it was announced Monday. This record is declared to be exceptional and it is said that it is doubtful if it has ever been equaled by any road in the United States.

Division figures in many instances show performance records of 100 per cent, officials stated, declaring that the system was operating with the highest degree of efficiency in its history.

Merchants and Manufacturers' association. This organization expects to draw more retail dealers to the city from the Atlanta trade territory than ever before.

The industrial exposition will be given this year under joint direction of the chamber of commerce, the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, and the Georgia Manufacturers' association.

1,127 PERSONS DIE IN DIXIE CRASHES

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Automobile, railroad, steamboat, airplane and horse-drawn vehicular traffic killed 1,127 persons and injured 6,575 in 11 southern states during the period from January 1, 1926, up to and including Monday, a survey conducted by the Associated Press revealed today.

The grand total of traffic casualties during the all but two days less than six months' period was arrived at through a consolidation of traffic surveys conducted weekly by the Associated Press through cooperation of member papers in the area covered.

There were a number of outstanding accidents in all classes of traffic. The collision of two vessels in the Mississippi river channel near New Orleans several months ago claimed upward of a score of lives, while train crashes in various sections of the south of more or less importance killed equally as many.

Estimates placed the number of grade-crossing fatalities in the 11 states at 50, while airplane accidents at the various commercial, military and naval fields claimed a like number.

Drivers of horse-drawn vehicles killed were comparatively few by reason of their steadily diminishing number. The over a dozen killed were the results of collisions with automobiles. Others killed were in the more ordinary automobile crashes.

There were more persons killed and injured during the month of January than in any other of the period included with 233 deaths and 1,271 persons injured. The January total is accounted for in the treacherous conditions of paved roads and highways during the winter from snow and rain. As the weather improved, motorists began taking to the roads in greater numbers and a corresponding increase in the number of accidents was noted after February and March.

Casualties by months follow:

Month	Killed	Injured
January	233	1,271
February	199	1,138
March	198	927
April	156	729
May	149	903
June	149	1,149
Totals	1,127	6,575

Florida led all southern states in the number of killed with 205. Of that total 120 were killed during the first three months, while the winter season was in progress. Florida also led in the number of persons injured with 1,284, of which number 696 were injured during the first quarter of the year. North Carolina was second in the number of persons killed with an even 200, while Georgia was second in the number of persons injured, with 1,078.

The tabulation by states follows:

State	Killed	Injured
Alabama	73	741
Arkansas	20	143
California	20	1,078
Florida	205	1,284
Georgia	200	1,078
Illinois	73	428
Indiana	118	808
Iowa	49	441
Kentucky	82	510
Tennessee	76	355
Totals	1,127	6,575

Annapolis, Md., June 28.—(P)—Richard Reese Whittemore probably will know within three days whether his final appeal from death at the end of a Maryland rope has been successful. His plea for a new trial was heard today by the Maryland court of appeals.

The court made no definite forecast of a date for the handing down of its decision, but announced that, in accordance with its custom, it would endeavor to clear its docket before recessing for the summer, which it is expected to do within three days.

Whittemore killed Robert H. Holtzman, a Maryland penitentiary guard, in February.

Edgar Allan Poe, Whittemore's counsel, based his appeal on alleged irregularities in methods employed by Criminal Court Judge Eugene O'Dunne in selection of a trial jury. He was not allowed to question prospective jurors as full as desired, he asserted, and stated that two jurors, having been accepted by both defense and prosecution, were withdrawn from the box and substituted by the state because of new information regarding them.

The state contended that full information regarding the jury panel was available before the trial had proceeded to make use of it.

Judge William Adkins remarked from the bench that the withdrawal of jurors once accepted "looks like a lottery." A full bench of eight judges heard the appeal arguments.

If the conviction and sentence is affirmed, Whittemore will be hanged on a date to be set by Governor Albert C. Ritchie.

4 PERSONS HELD IN AX MURDERS

Tampa, Fla., June 28.—(AP)—Two men, an aged woman and a 16-year-old girl were murdered in their beds in a small cottage here with an ax early this morning and police were holding three men and a woman tonight for investigation in connection with the crime. The two men and the aged woman were killed outright by blows on the head with the blunt end of the ax and the girl died at a hospital several hours later.

The victims of the axman were: Mrs. Caroline E. Rowell, 90; her son, Bee D. Rowell, 45; his niece, Eva Lena Rowell, 16, and a younger, C. H. Alexander, 36. All were beaten in the head unmercifully with the ax, and Rowell's head was battered beyond recognition.

The slayer apparently entered the two-room house from the rear some time after midnight this morning, killing Rowell and Alexander as they slept in the back room and then going to the front room where the aged woman and the girl were sleeping.

A loan could be used to great advantage by cotton, tobacco and other cooperatives. In other words such a loan makes available capital without which they cannot function effectively or on a large scale, and there is no other source from which such capital can be obtained. It is sorely needed, but it cannot be obtained today from commercial banks or intermediate credit banks because of the character of the security required by these banks.

"I consider these amortized loans reasonably safe. There is nothing more safe than the annual movement of agricultural commodities to market. And once sound, well-financed, large scale cooperatives are placed in process of development an enormous volume of commodities is certain to flow through their hands."

"An amortization charge places no burden on the farmer or upon the farmer who is a member of a cooperative because it will be more than made up by the economies in marketing that result from large scale cooperative marketing. A half-cent a bushel on wheat can be saved many times over by a strong cooperative through the absorption of the present legitimate profit of the middle man."

"The principle of amortized loans has been applied with outstanding success by the Federal Land banks and it can be employed safely and most effectively by the marketing board for which my amendment provides."

lied with those furnished by Miami authorities. Deputy Lacy reported. Ponzi at first refused to talk despite his identification by Bertillon methods. Deputy Lacy told Sheriff Bradford. Later, however, he admitted his identity.

A hunt for Ponzi was instituted here last week when Sheriff Binford received a tip the fugitive financier had been in Houston. The tip was said to have come from a dock worker. The vessel had sailed from Houston, however, before an arrest could be made and Sheriff Bradford sent Deputy Lacy to New Orleans on the case.

ACCUSED MAN SAYS HE'S SAILOR.

New Orleans, June 28.—(AP)—Charged with being Charles Ponzi, "financial wizard" who is wanted by Florida and Massachusetts authorities, a man who claimed he was Luciano Andrea, a seaman, was arrested here today.

The arrest was made by George Lacy, a deputy sheriff of Houston, Texas, when the Italian steamer Sie Vos Non Volis docked here while en route from Houston to Genoa, Italy.

Lacy declared Andrea answered Ponzi's description in every particular. Records of the vessel revealed that Andrea boarded the craft in Tampa, Fla., June 8. Andrea was quoted by Lacy as declaring that he had worked in a Tampa restaurant as a waiter for four months prior to the time he boarded the vessel. He could not be Ponzi if that is true.

Lacy said he noticed Andrea in Houston last Tuesday and followed here today.

with the Kennesaw Mountain Memorial, but I was greatly encouraged to hear that the city of Atlanta contemplates making a memorial battlefield park of the site it now owns on the battlefield of Peachtree creek and used at present as a disposal plant. That might justly be termed historic sacrifice.

"It is of course unthinkable that Atlanta can much longer use this historic ground for sewage dumping purposes, and it is most appropriate that the city should use it as a memorial park. There is no more beautiful territory around Atlanta. I know every inch of the ground for as a boy sergeant I was in the battle of Peachtree creek which was the first of the great engagements in the battles immediately around Atlanta. It is strange to me that nothing has been done up to this time to memorialize this historic battlefield on which General Benjamin Harrison, later president, was seriously wounded, and Walter Q. Gresham, of Indiana, distinguished statesman, received on this battlefield a shot through his thigh that caused him to limp through life. The battle of Atlanta fought two days later is memorialized in the city's beautiful Grant park, on this battlefield, and it stands today some of the great fortifications of this engagement. "If the city concludes to make a park of this beautiful historic area, no, dedicated as a sewage dump, it will become one of the historic parks of the country, for it is in the heart of the great battlefield of Peachtree creek and it was through this property that the Confederate lines of General Hood ran across the ridge on the south side of the creek, facing General Thomas's division of the Federal army as it entrenched itself on the north side of the creek prior to the bloody encounter in the valley fought in July, 1862.

"This would give a direct line of parks from Kennesaw through the Peachtree Creek Battle park to Grant park, in the center of the field of the battle of Atlanta where General McPherson and General Walker, commanding the two opposing armies were both killed, and then on a straight line a few miles beyond is the great Stone Mountain Memorial. "Could any plan make greater appeal to the civic pride of a community than one contemplating the joining of these great memorials?"

"I was glad to hear Mayor Sims and Judge Sibley of the federal court give the plan such hearty endorsement in their Marietta addresses, and to see the enthusiasm with which their remarks were received."

Barnesville, Ga., June 28.—(Special.)—The Kibbert peach crop in this vicinity is the most promising in years, according to the growers. Murphy, the pioneer peach man here, says his fruit is the finest he has ever grown, it being the most satisfactory as to quality he has ever produced. He expects to ship about 25 cars.

Police Get Clues In Kidnaping Of Woman Pastor

Los Angeles, Calif., June 28.—(AP)—Two leads were followed today by the attorney's office in checking up the kidnaping story told by Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, who reappeared in Douglas, Ariz., last week after having been missing for more than a month. Herman H. Cline, chief of detectives, seeking the identity of the woman referred to by Mrs. McPherson as "Rose" and said by her to have been one of her abductors, today sent his assistant, Captain Joe Taylor, to Mrs. McPherson with several police bulletins containing pictures of women fugitives. From the pictures the evangelist was asked to pick out any which might assist the police in determining the general type of the woman sought. While Mrs. McPherson admitted she had been unable to identify any of the photographs shown her as that of the mysterious "Rose," she hinted that Captain Taylor "had something to work on."

One of the photographs was that of a police character known as "Rose," said to be a drug addict and former keeper of a questionable dive in Mexico City.

Deputy District Attorney Joe Ryan

today canvassed the leading department stores of the city in an attempt to trail the purchase of the corset worn by Mrs. McPherson when she appeared in Douglas after her alleged escape from her captors. By means of a serial number, the corset had been found to have been manufactured in San Francisco. Mrs. McPherson had told investigators that the corset was furnished her by her abductors.

The new prestige in motoring

Hupmobile Eight Becomes the Center of a Rising Aristocracy Grouped Around Its Superior Principle

The day is passing when price and name alone are reasons enough for distinction in motor car ownership.

It began to pass with the coming of the beautiful Hupmobile Eight—the new interpretation of a superior engineering principle—and its going is being accelerated with every passing month.

There is a rising aristocracy of motoring, now, and it centers around the Hupmobile Eight.

It is an aristocracy which grants allegiance to a principle—to the newest and best as expressed in super-excellent quality and performance—as well as to a fine and distinguished name.

Its ranks are made up of those who instinctively take unto themselves the finer and better things of life.

And it has given over the idea that mere high price, unsupported by other eminent and superior elements, is the beginning and the end of prestige.

So it is today a mark of distinction to own and drive a Hupmobile Eight.

Not alone for its illustrious name.

Not alone for its beautiful coachwork.

But also for its magnificent performance, and the fact that eminent engineers pay it the honor of terming it the most perfect development of the straight-eight principle in America.

The first time you drive the Hupmobile Eight yourself, you will understand the subtle change that is taking place among buyers of the finer cars, and why it is taking place.

For you will find in this beautiful Eight the final luxury of smooth motoring—

A rhythm of engine action and road action that leaves you eager to go on, even at the end of a long day's tour—

A car so fine in every phase and detail of behavior that you would invent reasons for quite unnecessary trips here and there, in town and country, just for the pleasure of driving it or riding in it.

You still are subject to the thrill of being away first at the traffic signal; of sailing up a hill as though it wasn't there at all, of taking the rough stretches surely and smoothly without relaxing your pressure on the throttle.

You still like to swish in and out and around—when you can—and the quick-footedness of this Eight means all of that; with brake deceleration the full match for its remarkable acceleration.

Even if this Eight were not the sleek, beautiful thing it is, its magnificent smoothness and performance would give you pause, were you to consider some other type at some other price.

But with its beauty, and with everything that its perfected straight-eight principle means in luxury and in distinction, there remains no alternative—everything points to the Hupmobile Eight for your car.

PRAISING PARK PROJECT.
It is significant that at the recent Kennesaw Mountain memorial constitution meeting and reunion at Marietta, several of the speakers incidentally discussed the suggestion of Henderson Hallman, chairman of the sewerage committee of the city bond commission, that the 125 acres now owned by the city on Peachtree creek, and used as a disposal plant, be converted into a city park as a suitable memorial of the historic battle of Peachtree creek.

Mayor Sims very warmly commended the suggestion and Judge Samuel Sibley, of the federal court, who presided at the reunion ceremonies, developed the thought that a great highway beginning at Kennesaw, passing through the Peachtree creek battlefield park, and through Grant park—almost in the center of the area on which the great battle of Atlanta was fought—to the historic Stone Mountain memorial to the Confederacy, could be made one of the notable of the historic highways of the world.

Major General John L. Clem, chairman of the Kennesaw park memorial commission, on his return to Washington, warmly commends the suggestion in an interview published in today's Constitution. He was a participant in the battle of Peachtree creek and wondering why this historic battlefield has never been memorialized, he expresses the hope that the city would not fail to convert this area into a great park for civic use and historic significance.

Without exception those who have discussed the suggestion agree that the city should take advantage of this wonderful opportunity for linking the great Confederate memorial at Stone Mountain with the proposed national memorial at Kennesaw, by a highway passing through parks dedicated to the historic battlefields of Peachtree creek and of Atlanta.

It is now for Atlanta to supply the Peachtree creek part of the project with land already owned by the city. The sewage disposal plant must be moved further toward the river. There are unanswerable reasons for this. In making this move, in Atlanta's new program of municipal developments, the land it owns can be converted into park purposes without the usual process of buying and condemning property in order to corral park acreage.

The opportunity is as unusual as it is inviting. The 125 acres owned on Peachtree creek, now in the heart of a beautiful and finely developing residential section, compose a site of historic and park value ideal in every respect, fitting every traditional requirement for memorial purposes as if the property had to be assembled through many small purchases.

Echoes of the Marietta reunion accentuate the necessity for a movement that Atlanta cannot overlook.

POLITICS IN CONTROL.
These are hectic days, politically, in Washington. The revolt against the administration is being capitalized by the radicals and the near-radicals. Immediately following the failure of the McNary-Haugen bill the same senate group that became so active for Brookhart, as a slap at the administration, got busy for the renomination of Gerald Nye, of North Dakota.

This is the more significant because the regular republican opponent to Nye is Louis B. Hanna, former governor and former member of congress, a nephew of the late Mark Hanna, and a Coolidge manager in the northwest in 1924.

Johnson, of California, has joined the revolt. Heretofore he has kept aloof although antagonistic to the administration faction. Already the lines are being tightly drawn with 1928 more in view than the congressional elections this fall. The

THE FALLING FRANC.

The scheme of Joseph Caillaux, new minister of finance, to save the French franc is the establishment of enormous gold credits with the United States and Great Britain, according to late dispatches from Paris.

Henry Wales, commentator in Paris for American newspapers, declares that the finance minister intends to make these credits the price of ratifying the Berenger-Mellon debt funding agreement. That is to say, unless the credits are granted the funding pact will be defeated, and if granted it will be rammed through, etc. To this plan there is apparent trouble ahead, for the national gold reserve of France, held in the Bank of France vaults, and amounting to around $700,000,000, would have to be pledged to guarantee American advances, and the agents of the bank are reported as antagonistic to such a pledge, and threaten to resign if such a pledge is made.

The trouble with France, as viewed from this side of the water, is that it depends entirely upon re-shuffling its old political cards instead of demanding a new deck. It needs a new policy of action rather than new faces in its capital. The franc registers a new low mark every time there is a shake-up in government, which illustrates the fact that while the people may be fooled the franc cannot be. Every new cabinet that comes out of a government crisis takes up its work along the same old line of policy. The result is always the same. The franc fails to respond because it is not influenced in the slightest by new faces.

Borrowing great sums of money, actually or fictitiously, is not going to fool the franc or help the situation. As we view it, the French government will have to lower the rates of interest on the bonds held by the French people. It is said this would be partial "repudiation." True, but it would strengthen the bonds, and result ultimately in greater benefit to the bondholders, who are now bleeding the nation from within, and thus it would redound to the material welfare of all the people. France had to do the same thing in 1797. Germany, since the war, has been forced to do so, and Germany, vanquished in war, is today on a much higher rehabilitation peak than France, the victor.

The French bondholders cry against the "injustice" of lowering the interest rates on what they hold, but they clamor for an agreement with the American government upon precisely the same basis they refuse for themselves.

The miserable financial condition of France is caused from within. The franc is suffering from the scuttling of the ship by its own crew. It is sorely in need of firm, resolute action in the interest of national welfare, and not new faces in the interest of a group of French bondholders.

NOT TO BE IGNORED.
Answering a direct question upon the witness stand, William B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, the democratic nominee for the senate, could have done no less than tell the truth. He told the congressional committee that after his nomination—which, by the way, cost him only $88.31 as compared to total primary expenditures of around $3,000,000 by the three seeking the republican nomination—he was approached by an emissary of the administration and tendered a $12,000 a year position in the railroad mediation board. And while nothing was said about his retirement from the race for the senate, it was not necessary. The acceptance of the tender would have automatically settled that question. Mr. Wilson declined the offer of a federal post, remains in the senate race, and even in a rock-ribbed republican state is a formidable candidate in view of the revolution of popular sentiment against the auction-block methods of the republicans, and on account of Mr. Wilson's own personal popularity with the large labor element in that state, and with the independent republican element, which is larger than at any time heretofore.

William B. Wilson was a member of Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, and his testimony before the senate committee was given with reluctance, and not in order to exploit himself or to discredit political methods in the republican party. It is now denied by republican leaders, who see the reaction from such a political move, that the job on the mediation board was offered Wilson. The president has said nothing, but the fact is a serious one, and even the president cannot afford to ignore it. Some one representing the administration either sent an emissary to Wilson or he did not.

Under recent disclosures, it is plainly evident that W. B. Wilson and his campaign expense account of $83.31 will look good to tens of thousands of voters who have heretofore never voted any but a republican ticket.

A Wave of the Hand.
I. Goody the morning, With its wondrous light! But when one sleeps, In shadows deep, We never know 'tis night.

II. There will be none to wake us From that sleep so long; In darkness there, In sorrow or song.

III. Goody, the morning, And welcome darkness deep! At head and feet, And God's great gift of Sleep.

The Winning "Steady Fight."
In an article on "Keeping Everlastingly At It," The Albany Herald says:

"It is the steady fight that wins, nearly every time. There is many a spiritual 'flash in the pan,' just as there are 'flashes' in baseball, golf and tennis, in finance, in business, in farming and in ditch digging. The new broom sweeps clean—for a little while."

"It is the man who can keep his feet under him when he stumbles; who can get up after he has fallen; who can brush the dust off of his clothes and climb back into the road after he has been knocked down and run over; who can try again after he has failed; who can fight for little victories while waiting for the big chance; it is he who can win, and who usually does win."

"It is given to a few to be brilliant, but it's the steady pace that wins, nearly every time."

To Sidney Lanier.
I. He played the Southland's music Upon his vibrant flute; He voiced the Southland's rhythm While others all were mute.

II. He fought the Southland's battles, He faced the prison's gloom; He suffered with the Southland, He felt defeat's black doom.

III. The vision of the Southland He saw when all was dark; The Southland's faith and spirit, Steered him like his faith's trail bark.

IV. The Southland's words and marshes For him held secrets dear; The Southland's hills and rivers To him sang measures clear.

V. The breezes of the Southland, The ballads of its trees and vines, The nature notes of all the South To him were symphonies.

Lights of the Zuyder Sea

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Dutch railway, shipping companies, and steamboat undertakings advertise over the whole world to come and see the Zuyder sea before it becomes dry land.

Holland, forever battling with the water, sometimes losing in the unequal conflict and sometimes winning, has decided to conquer this turbulent inland water. Turbulent, I say, because of all the seas and lakes and rivers that I have ever sailed this is surely the most choppy. This is on account of the shallowness of the water.

When crossing, I discovered two Australians on the bowprit of the ship sick unto death and explaining, that even during a typhoon on the Indian ocean they had not been seasick.

The journey lasts two hours, and there is just a point where you can't see either of the shores. The train rides on the boat in the province of North Holland and leaves the boat again on the shores of Friesland, one of Holland's other northern provinces.

I stopped for half a day at Wirenzingen, the island where the German crown prince was an exile for five years. I was shown some of the local smithy and the house where he had dwelt and the house where he had slept. To me this bedroom had a little more interest, because my father slept here for a year when he was a young man and assisted to the notary of the commune.

One of the little boys is the proud possessor of little Willy's bicycle. The princeling gave it to him when he started back for Germany. The boy is in the kindergarten and will last for years, the boy explained.

The Unknown World.
Strange tales of native tribes that perform initiation rites forbidden to the eyes of women and eat a curious drug which they claim detaches the spirit from the body, are told by Dr. William Montgomery McGovern, who had visited the tribes in the Amazon basin of the northwest Amazon basin, in South America. Two other explorers who were in the Amazon basin to this wild land failed to return, one dying from fever and the other being eaten by cannibals. Dr. McGovern succeeded in finding out the hat of the latter. He was allowed to witness the strange Jurupari, or harvest rite. Candidates, for a fortnight he is deprived of food and eating only kaapi, a curious drug which they claim produces a semi-psychic state in which the spirit can leave the body and visit other tribes. Dr. McGovern tried the drug and had the feeling of being detached from his body, although he retained full control over his faculties. These ceremonies are forbidden to be seen by women, the pain of death. Dr. McGovern was allowed to bring away one of the sacred trumpets used in the rites, only on the solemn oath that he would never let a woman see it.

WOOD ASKS HOLDER FOR HIGHWAY PLANS IN DOOLY SPEECH
Unadilla, Ga., June 28.—(Special.) The first direct fire of the present gubernatorial campaign in Dooly county, was made by J. O. Wood, candidate for governor, publicly called on John Holder, chairman of the highway department and also secretary of the governor's toga, to state how the 2,000 miles of paved roads contemplated by the department will be divided.

The speaker declared that the voters of Georgia are entitled to know the plans of the highway department, and in addressing a large audience at the Hotel Auditorium declared that Mr. Holder has outlined a plan of road paving, but has failed to designate the counties which are to be benefited.

"It is attempting to ride into the governor's chair on this alleged promise of action and in opposition to a bond issue, but plainly outlines in his plan of development, that each county must issue bonds, pay interest and sinking fund on them, but opposes a bond issue for the state, which is the only way to get the state to get the roads," Mr. Wood said.

He made it plain that he is not running on a platform of "no bond," but that the people of the state are entitled to know what the "powers that be" contemplate in the way of improvement and what to expect.

The speaker also stated he favors complete reorganization of the highway department with one representative from each congressional district, and an economical administration of the state's affairs by cutting off needless employees; accessibility of the Bible in every school in the state; which state funds are directed in support of the institution and a clean, wholesome and business-like governmental policy.

CONGENITAL HIP DISEASE.
When the late apostle of "bloodless surgery" for congenital hip disease introduced himself and his method of treatment to this country he made a great contribution to science and humanity and that is acknowledged by the name which is now everywhere applied to this method of treatment—the Lorenz method. Not even the perennial recrudescence of the author of the treatment or his grand ambition to make himself a millionaire can rob him of the fame he has earned or the gratitude of the thousands of sufferers who have benefited through the Lorenz method not from the personal skill of the author.

Granting that Dr. Lorenz has acquired great skill in the bloodless reduction of congenital dislocation of the hip, there is no doubt that a thousand American orthopedic surgeons have at least as great skill in the Lorenz method as Dr. Lorenz himself or any of his associates in Europe or America. I do not mean to detract from the greatness of the man or his work, but merely to encourage those who may imagine that this man alone can do something for a deformed child.

Two definite issues have been cut out for them by republican truculence. One is effective financial relief and the other the corruption of primary non-political issues. It is thought that captivating campaign slogans can be evolved from those conditions. But serious observers understand that the party should be successful, will find hard to achieve.

For instance, the sort of farm relief that the western farmers are asking for, and which which alone they will be in anywise united, demands subsidies from the national treasury. Against "subsidies, protection and tariffs," historic democracy, speaking politically, is pledged to make unremitting war. But historic democracy no longer prevails. A new democracy has come in with the fifty-fifty system of cooperation, financially and physically, by the federal government in creation and management of primary state institutions. And it is going to be some job for democratic statesmen, if we have any, to wear the stanchest democratic robes from those fifty-fifty crises. I wouldn't like to have that job in Georgia wished on me!

The freshman contest over a 2-mile course, featuring the race of the century, resulted in a smashing victory for Columbia's unbeaten yearlings, who pulled out the east's only triumph in impressive fashion. They were followed by Cornell, with two freshmen by five lengths, while Syracuse, Pennsylvania and Cornell brought up the rear in that order. The boys' team of Cornell won all three prizes in a regatta which drew together a record-breaking array of 19 crews and witnessed a new high-water mark in intercollegiate rowing, with Washington University laying more glory than any previous invader has.

SOUTHERN EUROPE SHOCKED BY QUAKE

London, June 28.—(AP)—The great earthquake Saturday night, which embraced Italy and most of the countries bordering on the eastern Mediterranean, was in its most widespread than first reports indicated. It extended as far as the East Indies. Heavy shocks being experienced at Singapore and Central Sumatra.

Thus far the reports do not indicate any serious casualties. Vague and conflicting rumors were current in Athens, but as the day advanced reassuring reports arrived, showing that in Crete, which appears to have been the center of the disturbance, nobody was killed and a few were injured.

Advices received from Rome indicate that the island of Rhodes, which is under Italian sovereignty, suffered very heavy shocks.

ONE KILLED, MANY HURT; TOWNS ARE DAMAGED.

out and several other towns on the island of Rhodes were seriously damaged in Saturday's earthquake which was felt throughout the Mediterranean basin between Asia Minor, southern Italy and north Africa.

As far as is known, only one person was killed. Several were injured. Greater loss of life was prevented by the flight of the panic-stricken population soon as the first intimations of the approach of the dreaded earthquake were felt. The quake lasted only from 50 seconds to two minutes. The center of the disturbance, nobody was killed and a few were injured.

American Marble

Asked for Graves

On Battlefields

Washington, June 28.—(Special)—In order to show the war department the sentiment in congress, Representative Brand, of Georgia, has introduced a concurrent resolution expressing the desire of the house and senate that American marble and granite should be used in the erection of headstones and monuments for the graves of American soldiers killed in France.

Brand was among a number of members of congress who appeared before the battle monuments commission recently and urged that American marble and granite should be used. Feeling that the war department might go ahead and make contracts with foreign concerns, he introduced his resolution as a channel for expression of sentiment in congress, which, he says, is wholeheartedly in favor of using the products of American concerns.

Police Aid Is Asked

In Search for Boys

Missing From Home

Luther L. Brownlow, 17, of 11 Homer street, has been missing since June 21, members of his family stated Monday. Police and detectives have been asked to aid in the search for the missing youth.

The youth when last seen about noon, Monday, June 21, was wearing blue overalls and a blue serge coat. He stated to members of his family that he was going on a fishing trip down the Chattahoochee river with Henry Chafin, of Riverside, Ga.

Neither the Chafin nor the Brownlow boy has been seen since.

The boys are known to have gone down the Chattahoochee river as far as Campbell's ferry, where it was said they tied their car near the shore and evidently were preparing to camp out during the night.

Mrs. H. F. Brownlow, mother of the missing youth, expressed a belief that the boys had started on a pilgrimage to some Florida city and were lost on the way.

It was stated that neither of the boys had any reason for leaving home and they left with only a small amount of money. Information concerning the whereabouts of either of the youths can be left with Emmett E. Shaw, Ivy 8098, or Mrs. H. F. Brownlow, 11 Homer street.

BOYLAN ATTACKS

UPSHAW'S STAND

ON PARTY ISSUE

Washington, June 28.—(AP)—Taking issue with Representative Upshaw, democrat, Georgia, in his advocacy of a "dry" plank in the 1928 democratic platform, Representative Boylan, a New York democrat, questioned in the house today Upshaw's "right to assume the spokesmanship" of their party.

Boylan said he could not agree that the democratic donkey should "purse a dusty, dry trail to the white house meadows," and added:

"I ask the democratic party to pursue the same temperate course. When they do, the donkey will again thrive on the dew off the white house lawn—all the more sustaining, perhaps, because the grass is a little wet."

COMMITTEE NAMED

TO AID NEGROES HERE

More than a hundred negro leaders and representatives of social agencies working among colored people met Monday in the Chamber of Commerce building. A survey committee was appointed to study needs of social service among negroes in Atlanta and to recommend such revision, improvement and development as would seem practical.

Leaders of the race, including Dr. A. T. Walden, Dr. E. P. Johnson and James Walker, urged that all differences be subordinated and that all groups unite behind a movement which might be the result of collective judgment. Roy F. Gates, director of the Atlanta Community Chest, stated that the chest is eager to promote vigorously a definite growing program of social work for colored people.

The committee authorized by the meeting to make the survey is to be composed of Dr. Willis J. King, E. Franklin Fraser, T. T. Norwood, Jr., Mrs. A. D. Jones, Dr. T. H. Slater and representatives of all the social agencies doing work among negroes. These include the Y. M. C. A., the state tuberculosis association, the Leonard Street orphanage, the Carrie Steele Logan home, the Gate City Free kindergarten, the Urban League, the Y. W. C. A., the Atlanta School of Welfare Work, the Legal Aid society, the Travelers' Aid, the American Red Cross, the Safety council, the State Committee on Race Relations, all of which are agencies in the community chest, and the Gray clinic, the City Nursing service, the Juvenile court, the county commission, which conducts the county farm and the negro reformatory; the Neighborhood union, the Y. M. C. A., the state board of public welfare, the city warden and the school attendance department.

Eastern Liquor

Not Dangerous, Chemists Report

New Haven, Conn., June 28.—Connecticut scollars have been considerably reassured by a report from the chemists of the state agricultural experiment station, which says that Connecticut liquor isn't as dangerous as everyone had supposed.

The chemists concluded that the bootleg whisky of today was about as good as the bar whisky of pre-war days, containing virtually as much alcohol, no more artificial coloring and as near a standard of solids content as ever.

The report is based on analysis of 123 samples of 1916 bar whisky and 276 samples submitted by prohibition agents in the last six years. Only 13 of the 1915 samples were real aged-in-the-wood whisky, the rest containing artificial coloring as the modern brand.

"We are aware of no authoritative opinion that traces of such substance are likely to produce measurable effects of a dangerous character," said Dr. F. M. Bailey, chief chemist of the experimental station.

Men and Money Together

Make Business Profits

Every normal person, it may safely be assumed, looks forward to a day when he can have greater financial independence. We speak of it as "independence," the magic word, if not actually on everyone's lips, is at least on everyone's mind.

And, like many another word which figures much in men's lives, it is one whose true significance is understood by few.

In the minds of many persons—most persons—independence is thought of in terms of greater pay.

There is a relationship between independence and more pay, but the terms are not identical, for independence comes to most people who enjoy that position in life through saving out of their income, matters not how small, then investing those savings, thereby accumulating and creating an income—meaning "independence."

Your money invested in the stock of the UNITY TRUST COMPANY affords you a real opportunity toward reaching that desired goal—"independence"—this stock offers an investment in non-speculative business profits heretofore closed to men of moderate means.

The plan of operation of the Unity Trust Company provides an opportunity for a public service of the highest order and of the most helpful nature. The workingman, the home buyer, needs the service that the Unity Trust Company will provide. Besides, the entire community will be benefited by its activities in a very

Prominent Atlantans Greet Victor Herbert's 'Her Regiment'

The large audience greeting the premiere of "Her Regiment," Victor Herbert's taut comic opera, at the Atlanta theater Monday evening, was composed of socially prominent and musically inclined Atlantans assembled to enjoy the opera presented by favorite stars, such as Vera Myers, Mary Patterson, Anne Yago, Louis Templeton, Lou Powers, Francis Tyler, William McLeod, Olga Lester, Arthur Buckley and Walter Herbert, perfectly cast in their respective parts in the Municipal Opera company.

Pretty little Vera Myers had a wonderful opportunity to display her charming vocal and terpsichorean talents, while Miss Yago and popular Miss Patterson were greatly applauded every time they appeared behind the footlights.

The graceful ballet executed beautiful dances with rhythmic art, while the opera was brilliantly costumed according to the customary dress of Normandy, bringing the opera costumes up to the present day evening gown.

These light operas have a decided appeal and "Her Regiment" was familiar and pleasing from every standpoint, applause for the principals and chorus demonstrating the fact that the entire production is well-balanced and possesses many pleasing qualities.

The chorus, made up of Atlantans, is one of the most attractive features of the entertainment, exhibiting unusual professional training.

Carbajal-Greene Wedding at Camp Junaluska

Of interest to Atlantans was the marriage of Miss Patricia Carbajal, of Antilla, Cuba, to Earle R. Greene, of Jacksonville and Atlanta, which was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at Camp Junaluska for Girls.

Preceding the ceremony a brief musical program was rendered by Miss Agnes McInturf, of Greenville, Tenn., who sang two numbers, "A Wedding Song" and "At Dawning," and Miss Annelia Adams, of Tampa, Fla., who played a violin solo, "Schubert's Serenade," very softly during the ceremony. Miss Ora Mizelle, of Tampa, Fla., was at the piano.

The attendants were Miss Allie Spencer, of Waco, Texas, who was groomed in a beautiful dress of flesh-colored georgette trimmed with bands of silver. She carried an arm bouquet of pink and white bridesmaid roses. Miss Mary Legon, of Mount Pleasant, Tenn., came next, wearing an apricot colored georgette and carrying an arm bouquet of roses to harmonize. Then came the maid of honor, Miss Ethel J. McCoy, of Bristol, Va., who wore a period gown of blue georgette over satin, trimmed with cream-colored lace. Her flowers were bridesmaid nippedin swansons.

Following the maid of honor came the junior bridesmaid, Little Miss Charlotte Adams, of Atlanta, Ga., who wore a dainty frock of embroidered crepe de chine and carried an arm bouquet of old-fashioned flowers. Then came the ringbearer, Master Thomas McKee, of Cleveland, Ohio, who carried the ring on a white satin pillow. He wore a cunning little suit of white broadcloth.

The bride went to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march on the arm of Hugh E. Adams, of Tampa, Fla., who in the absence of her father, Oscar G. Carbajal, of Antilla, Cuba, gave her in marriage. She wore a beautiful period gown of white tulle, trimmed with heavy lace and made in Queen Anne style, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The bride is a typical Spanish beauty and made a wonderful picture of radiant youth and happiness. She was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Cecil Vaughan, of Black Mountain, N. C. Dr. Frank Siler, of the Methodist church at Lake Junaluska, performed the impressive ceremony.

Delightful Dinner.

Immediately after the wedding, dinner was served to the bride party and a few intimate friends and relatives, in the camp dining room.

Mrs. Greene's traveling gown was of black crepe trimmed with tan. With this she wore a handsome black satin coat trimmed with moleskin fur, tan hat and all accessories to match.

The bride and groom left for Chicago. From there Mr. and Mrs. Greene will go to Chateau Lake Louise, in the Canadian Rockies, then to Alaska, returning down the Pacific coast to San Francisco and Los Angeles into Mexico and will return by way of Atlanta to Camp Junaluska, which they plan to reach by August 1.

The wedding was preceded by the rehearsal, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh E. Adams, of Tampa, Fla., entertained at a garden party and buffet supper at their home, "Trivium," on Lake Junaluska, in honor of the bride party and guests who came for the wedding.

Mrs. Greene is a native of Aviles, Spain, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar G. Carbajal, of Antilla, Cuba. For the past ten years she has made her home in Virginia. In her college, Bristol, Va., and Camp Junaluska, Lake Junaluska, N. C.

WEIGHED ONLY 98 POUNDS

Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Cleveland, Ohio.—"After having my first baby, I lost weight, no matter what I did. This a doctor told me I would be better if I had another baby, which I did. But I got worse, was always sickly and went down to 98 pounds. My neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles, I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. RUSSIGER, 10004 Nelson Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

If some good fairy should appear, and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose? Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares. Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away. Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy and surely health is cause enough for happiness.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you better health.

Down the Avenue with Jane

A COLUMN of frank discussions upon the subject of Fashionable Footwear and Present Day Economics by a recognized authority.

Beyond Sunset Seas!

SHE came to America from Italy with her distinguished husband the Director of The Metropolitan Opera Company of New York. She visited the shops as she had done in Paris, London and other European cities. She bought gowns, hats, shoes. She liked America and especially its shops. One in particular she just will not forget. Twice within the last year she has written from her home across the waters to this shop for footwear.

And Then From Hollywood!

CO Birmingham—The new "iron city of the south" came one of America's foremost feminine screen favorites to film a mighty drama. This lovable and smartly dressed American girl was smitten with the same identical footwear that so charmed her sister from over the seas. And she too must have, not one, but several pairs for herself and as many for her fastidious and altogether charming mother who accompanied her.

Legions La Femme!

THESE are but two of thousands of similar instances where women of good taste and seasoned style-judgment have of their own inclination chosen Nisley's Beautiful Shoes. Not because of their price particularly, but because of their beauty, style-correctness and fitting qualities.

In Every City!

WHERE Nisley's Beautiful Shoes are sold, I could produce a list of the names of hundreds of society leaders and feminine style devotees who wear and enthusiastically endorse Nisley's Beautiful Shoes. The Nisley Company, however, has forbidden me to mention a single name. You have no idea how hard it is upon a writer to be forbidden to mention names.

Sing a Song of Sizes!

"CAN they fit me in December as they do in May?" This is the time of the year when thousands of pairs of shoes are advertised at sale prices with the remote possibility that there is one pair among all of the thousands advertised that will fit your foot.

They Deserve Consideration!

IN the name of economy and because you have that very human feminine quality "to shop and compare" you will attend these sales. But after you have been disappointed a dozen or so times, here is a good thing to "Remember"—Nisley's Beautiful Shoes are carried in a full range of sizes and widths—"Not for just a day—Not for just a week—Not for just a month—But always." And the price too is always $5 with an ever changing assemblage of Seventy Exclusive styles to select from.

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy

INSTALLMENT XLIV.

JOHN PREPARES FOR ACTION.

John did not attempt to follow or detain Eileen. Her very earnestness had taken his breath away. He literally did not grasp the true intent of that last strange avowal until she was already within the lodge gates, for his hungry gaze had accompanied her across the village green and so into the leafy fastness of the park. Then he understood, and was so overwhelmed by the magic of the love which had burned so faithfully during the long years of storm and suffering that he sank into a chair.

He was recalled to his senses by a cold nose thrust into his hand and a soft tongue licking it. Spot, well aware that his duty on such an occasion was to remain a very quiet dog, had stretched himself under the table, and Eileen, after patting his huge head when he entered the room, had completely forgotten his presence.

John fondled his friend's neck and ears, and strove to recapture the confident mood of the afternoon. He had to admit that Eileen was right, though the admission implied the need of immediate action, and it had been seen that beyond taking the first great step by coming home to claim his legacy he had done little hitherto in his own behalf. He had tried to stop the marriage, and had failed. After that nothing else mattered. Now, it would appear, his own position was the really vital thing. Of course, the outlook was not quite so hopeless as it had seemed when Frensham first met him on the Mall and stirred into activity embers of the old fire by his story of a dying man's belief that Captain Pantan had not been "treated fair," had been "doped," in fact. Why should that poor fellow, at a moment when the tide of life was ebbing fast, have wanted to see justice done to his company commander? On what count? And why should he have used such a word as "doped"—so astonishingly apt when seen in the light of recent discoveries? John realized now that he had been lax in not trying at once to find out something about that friendly lance-corporal, some of whose cronies must be living still. Dash it, he had just remembered the man's name—"Henry Mallin"—that was it! Three weeks after the court-martial, while he was waiting in Liverpool for the fireman's job which would bring him to Canada, he came across a list of the casualties sustained by his battalion in that very action. It was with hot envy rather than regret that he read the glorious page. He longed to be numbered with the dead. If a man's ghost were permitted to scan the columns of a newspaper surely it would be proud of the printed record that its mortal husk shared the same grave with such a gallant company!

The memory brought a stab of pain, but John thrust that aside resolutely. Was it too late to dispatch a telegram? Furneaux might well like to hear of Lance-Corporal Mallin, and endeavor to trace his close comrades among the survivors of the regiment.

Macdonald, with the innate courtesy of the highlander, had not intruded on his guest after Eileen's departure. The old man knew that something was wrong. In that small and isolated community the affairs of the "castle," as the glen persisted in misnaming a Georgian mansion, and those of the humblest cottage were common property. It was reported that Alistair Pantan and his wife, having behaved strangely from the outset of their married life, had now passed from a sort of friendly pact of avoidance into open and bitter warfare. There are no secrets in a large household which, like Inverlochty, is shut off from the outside world. And the village was practically part of the desmesne. The instant Eileen sought rooms for John at the postoffice, and announced her intention of awaiting his arrival when she put in an appearance that evening, Macdonald guessed that the glen would have cause for gossip before long. And he was all for John Pantan and Eileen, all against Alistair. Why this should be, he could not explain. "It was just an old man's havers," he said afterwards, when striving to piece together the amazing events of that night and the next day.

It was too late, of course, to telegraph to London, but Macdonald undertook to dispatch a bit message to Mallin by cyclist before 8 o'clock next morning. So John wrote sufficient to put Furneaux or one of his merry men on the right track if any information were to be obtained in that way. Then he ate a highland supper, which can be as substantial a meal as any, and took Spot out for his first survey of a new land.

It was then about 9 o'clock. The twilight was yet so luminous that the crests of the circling hills were etched against a vividly blue sky. The sun gilded the loftiest summits, but the heather and firs were black in the shadows, and the face of the loch was so smooth that it seemed not to be water at all but an inverted mirage of the wooded slopes and swelling moorland beyond. John was racking his brain to determine what his first move should be, and he decided that he ought to await advice from London.

It was all very well to form bellicose schemes of clutching Conington by the throat and squeezing a confession out of him. That might be good melodrama, but it was not sound commonsense. Nor must he dream of obliging Betty Bridgforth by laying into Alistair with a dog whip or his bare fists. Any such reprisal, though enjoyable, would be most damaging to his own interests. So, as a matter of cold analysis, what good could he hope to accomplish by remaining at Inverlochty? None whatsoever! That was the plain, unpalatable truth. He had rushed there at Eileen's call, but, womanlike and quite wisely, once assured that he was her man for ever and a day, she elected to free him from the embarrassment of a too speedy flight.

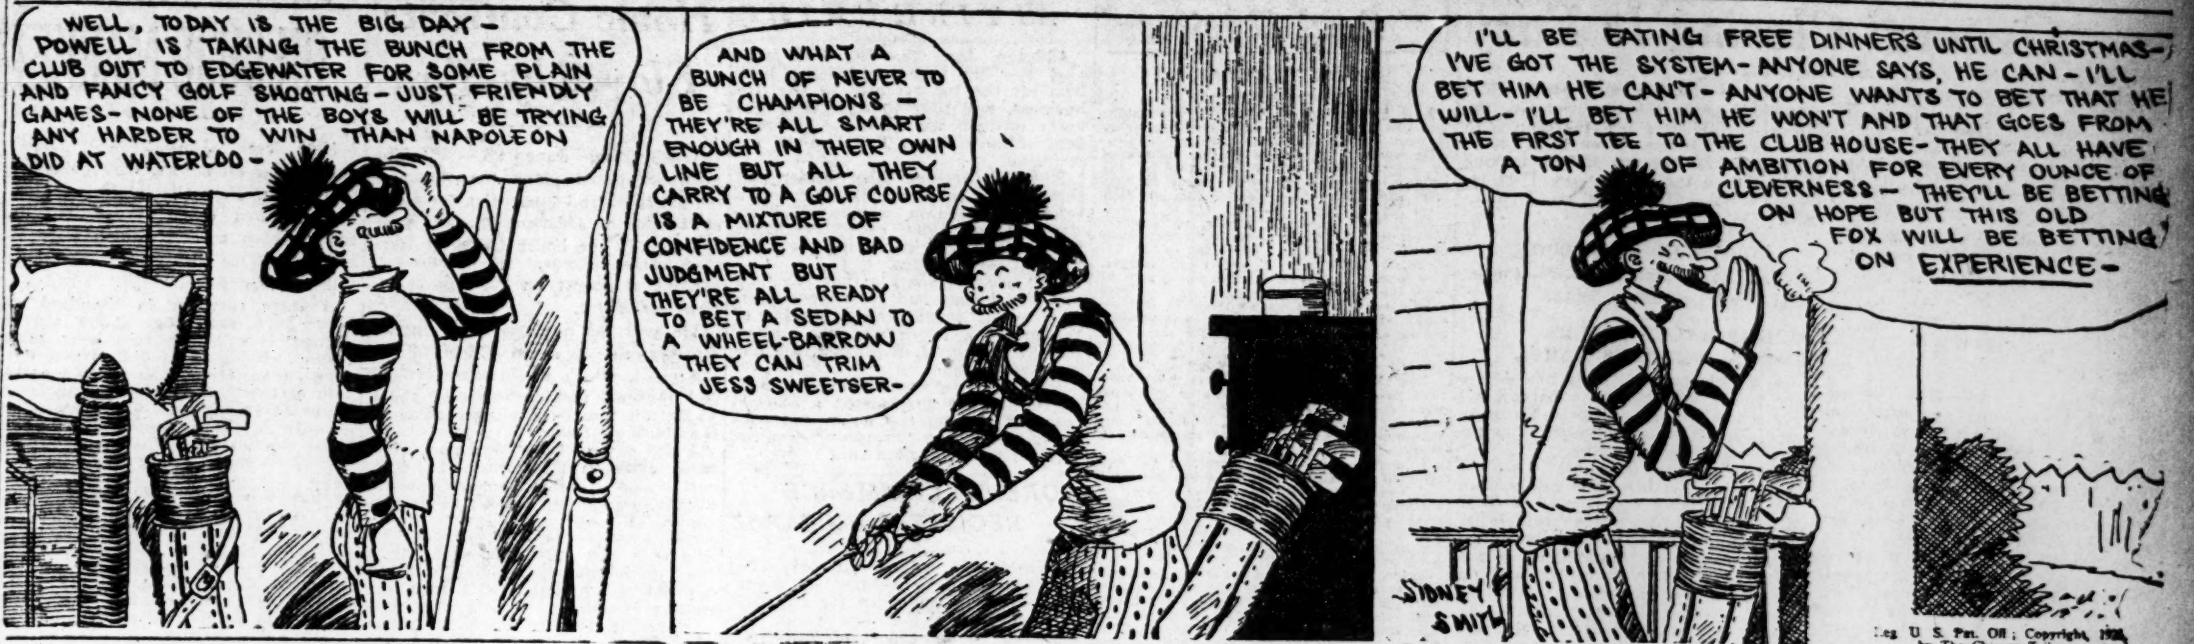

She had interred that the appointment made that night for Ian's Leap would be kept by neither her nor Betty. Anyhow, he would take a chance and go there—as was as pleasant a stroll as any, and a meeting with Betty could be arranged next day. She, at least, was a free agent, and he wanted to consult her on a matter wholly apart from the present disturbance. He was not quite easy in his mind as to Lady Bridgforth's bequest. Was she really so wealthy that she could dispose of such a large sum as a hundred thousand pounds for a sentimental reason? If Betty had suffered financial loss the thing must be put right.

Thus and so did John plan, passing through the tiny hamlet, pipe in mouth, with Spot at his heels. A few men had gathered near an oak which dominated a small green. They did not pretend not to see him. Three stood at attention, and saluted; the others touched their caps. He raised his "deerstalker" with a flourish. It was significant that no one spoke. These good fellows did not quite know how to act. Strange rumors were flying about. But it would be absurd to pretend that they had not recognized Master John. Why, some of the older dogs might have hailed him had they not been so thrilled by Spot's impudence in daring to walk so sedately along the street.

Half Way Mark of Trip Travelers to Reach Harbin Wednesday Passed by Globe-Circlers

BY EDWARD S. EVANS,
Special Correspondent for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance.
(Copyright, 1926, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Near Verkhneudinsk, Siberia, En Route China, June 25.—After a silence of two days, Lindsey Wells and I finally have been able to forward the story of our effort to break the record for circling the world through a German passenger and a Russian porter on the trans-Siberian train which we are riding.

For two days we were unable to get telegraph operators along the line to accept our messages written in Latin script and as neither of us could master the intricacies of the 36-letter Russian alphabet we were compelled to leave The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance without information on our journey.

We finally got our messages out through a German passenger and a Russian porter. The German understood English and the porter understood German. We wrote our messages in English, the German translated them into "Deutsch" and the porter translated them from German to Russian. At Moscow your representative sets them back into English. After the four days of breathless haste, from Chertkovo to Omsk, during which Linton and I traveled an average of nearly 1,100 miles a day, the journey on this geographical half way mark of our trip, and tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock we transfer at Chita from this train to the Manchou-Li and Harbin.

We should reach Harbin in Manchuria, at 11:35 p. m. Wednesday. There we begin a hasty series of transfers. In four hours a special train will carry us to Chang Hu. There a plane loaned us by Chang Tso Lin, war lord of Manchuria, meets us to carry us down to Mukden and from Mukden to Antung, near the Korean border.

This plane cannot cross into Korea, so that we take a train there for Fusan, arriving in Fusan on Friday morning. A boat carries us across the Sea of Japan to Shimoda late Friday night, and late Saturday we expect to reach Yokohama by train. Twenty minutes after our train arrives the Empress of Asia will sail for Victoria, we hope to be aboard.

From Harbin to the steamer our time between jumps averages about 20 minutes, no time for play or accidents. But once aboard the Asia and this race is in our pocket. We will complete the circuit of the globe in 28 days, more than a week less than John Henry Mears' record.

Wells and I are in perfect condition and both agreed that this experience is worth all the expense and effort we have put into it. In our four days' sprint we managed to get along on three hours of sleep and two square meals, and I, suffering from overwork when I left my Detroit office, thrived on it.

I am tremendously impressed by the capability of German and Russian air pilots. Aviation is my interest and the splendid development and expert management which I have witnessed over European airways convinces me that this trip is worth while if it merely demonstrates the effect the airplane has had on travel. We have met with splendid hospitality and cooperation at every point, but particularly in Russia. Great crowds have met us and the Soviet domains and at Krasnoyarsk the peasants, upon hearing that we had not eaten for many hours, gave us the obviously interesting pastime of watching us dash into the forest and returned with black bread and raw eggs which they sealed in milk and offered to Shingun, a great spread of goats' hair on the ground for us to sit on, but our plane was ready to go and we were compelled to leave after a few hasty gulps of milk. A package containing a dozen raw eggs was thrust into our hands and while neither of us has any particular fondness for this dish, the eggs were not wasted.

My interest in this country is pronounced.

ON the Fourth of July the predominating thought is independence. Why not think of personal financial independence? Consult us.

Beloved Mayor Of Greenwich Village Dying

New York, June 25.—Those to whom Greenwich village means merely a name for New York's most Bohemian, show place for visitors who get a thrill from synthetic gin in a poorly lighted cellar provided with a juke box, may not have heard of Dr. Edwin Zimmerman, known as "Mayor of Greenwich Village."

Dr. Zimmerman is dying in New York hospital, bidding farewell to friends and neighbors he has known and helped for nearly half a century since first he moved to the village. Moreover, the doctor, who most frequently told poor patients that his will already "had been paid by God," is disposing of all his property, including it away to the needy, "so that there will be no trouble to others."

The doctor's friends are written on a pad of paper, for an operation for cancer of the throat, which prolonged but could not save his life, has deprived him of speech.

Each day a line of men and women, concealing their sorrow behind cheerful smiles in response to those of Dr. Zimmerman, passes by the dying man. Some receive gifts of his possessions. One relative has been given all the doctor's clothes. "Professional friends" received his medical books. Gettysburg college has been given a collection of antiquities which includes a walking-stick owned and carried by Abraham Lincoln.

There is not much money for Dr. Zimmerman to give away. Most of his work was done without charge and his benefactions since he came to Greenwich Village 46 years ago have been numerous.

In 1883 citizens of the village presented Dr. Zimmerman with a gold medal for his work as president of community's public health committee, and a few years later gave him a walking stick inscribed to "the mayor of Greenwich Village."

MORTUARY

"NERVOUS," HE LEFT WIFE IN COLUMBIA, SAYS GOTHAM MAN

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
New York, June 25.—Admitting that he left his wife at the railroad station in Columbia, S. C., at 3:30 in the morning, Meyer Barber, wealthy silk man, explains he was too nervous to know what he was doing.

Pending trial of her separation suit based on charges of cruel treatment, Mrs. Janet Barber, 29, was today awarded $10 weekly alimony, and $450 counsel fees.

"We separated at Columbia, S. C., on October 15, last, while en route to Florida," Barber's affidavit states. "I was recovering from an operation and was in a nervous and irritable state. Suddenly I was overcome by the reflection that our married life had become marred by the malicious interference by my wife's aunt, a spinster of 60."

Barber asserts that shortly after his marriage in 1918, the aunt took up her abode with them at his wife's invitation.

RAIDING PARSON
HAILED TO COURT ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Buffalo, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—Charged with outraging public decency, the Rev. Littleton E. H. Smith, widely known as the "raiding parson," was arrested today by Mrs. Eva Jacobs, wife of an usher in his church. They will be tried in Kanamora tomorrow evening.

A patrolman arrested them in a parked, unlighted automobile, and took them to the Kanamora police station where they gave $50 bail each.

Mr. Smith is pastor of the Ontario Street Presbyterian church. A year ago he was given public notice through his activities in prohibition enforcement.

On numerous occasions he accompanied prohibition agents in raids on saloons and roadhouses in western New York and it was said he supplied the agents with much information.

WHY should I be cast aside late in life that ANOTHER WOMAN MAY HAVE MY HUSBAND? He feels I HAVE NOT KEPT STEP WITH HIS PROGRESS. That is man's selfish view; ALL MEN SHARE IT. I question the justice and deny the RIGHT of my husband to repudiate this partnership to which I have contributed a home and a child.

I did not "trap him into marriage." HE TOOK ME AS HE FOUND ME. His growth and social development are due to GREATER OPPORTUNITIES I could not have in the confining environment of our home in a small town with a baby to look after. He now justifies his leaving me because Society has not accepted me; a weak defense WHEN A WOMAN HAS GIVEN HER ALL TO A MAN. That's the basis of my marital break with Stephen Dallas. What can he say in answer to this?
